MANUEL QUEZON

Manuel Quezon will not be present when General MacArthur and his men march back into Bataan and Corregidor. The man who led the fight for independence of the Philippines and became its first president only to see his country overrun by the Japs in 1941, passed away just at the time when our forces are gathering for the final blow to regain that land.

Quezon was just 20 years old when the American troops drove the Spaniards out of the Philippines in 1898. He joined the Rebel forces of Aguinaldo and became chief of staff in the native movement opposing the United States, until that movement collapsed.

His burning determination for Filipino independence did not lessen, however, and when he went to Washington in 1909 as the Philippine resident commissioner he argued his cause so eloquently that in 1916 the Filipinos were given almost complete self-government.

But when the shadow of Japan fell darkly across his native land, President Quezon began to favor the continuation of close ties with the United States. He realized that the Philippines would need help in case of war.

The work which he has done for his country will not be lost and though he will not witness the victory procession in Manila, his spirit will march with those who have fought for freedom.

GI JOE DISCOVERS AMERICA

There are now more than six million Americans serving on land and sea outside of the United States. Undoubtedly, the great majority of them had never been outside of the country before, and many probably had never been more than a few hundred miles from home.

Now continents and oceans lie between them and the places they know and love. Now they are "seeing the world"—much of it through the sights of their guns. Now they are visiting strange and bewildering places. Now they stand watch on frozen ground near the Arctic circle; plod through equatorial jungles; sail the seven seas.

Many of our fighting men are "seeing" for the first time—not foreign lands—but America. Having the opportunity to experience first hand the customs and living conditions of foreign countries—not to mention the weather—our GI Joes appreciate more than ever the land they left behind them.

Viewed from thousands of miles away the little things at home take on hallowed significance—walking down Main street, the Saturday night dance, the swimming hole, ice cream sodas, hamburgers, hot dogs, baseball games, driving on the open road with a girl, sitting on the porch in the quiet of a summer evening.

It has been said that the American soldier does not know what he is fighting for. Probably he does not grasp the full significance of the economic and political factors that underlie this world conflict. But one thing he does understand, that by fighting he is making it possible for Americans to enjoy the little things, the precious things that make America what it is.

And he has pretty well made up his mind that when he gets back home he isn't going to be "from" there any more.

"MISSION ACCOMPLISHED"

On June 12, Uncle Sam set out to raise $16 billion to help further finance the war. This was the largest amount any nation had ever tried to raise at any one time.

On August 1, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced, "Mission accomplished"—with more than $4½ billion to spare!

This was truly a national achievement made possible by the sales efforts and the purchases of many millions of Americans. What was probably the greatest organized sales force in history was on the job throughout the nation. For example, thousands of chain and independent retailers in California banded together in the formation of the Third Army—the name given to the employees who energetically sold War Bonds along with food and merchandise.

Each of these workers had a goal of $300 in Bonds to sell, but their enthusiasm enabled them to average practically double that amount.

Although the sum subscribed in the Fifth War Loan was "inter-planetary" in its size, it will pay the costs of the war for only a few months since we are spending over seven billion dollars every 30 days in this global struggle.

So let us not rest on our laurels. Let us keep on working and saving and buying War Bonds. It's the price of victory—and victory is worth it.

LESS OPTIMISM

During the darkest days of the war, Prime Minister Winston Churchill did not hesitate to tell the people of Britain and of the Allied nations the blunt truth even when it hurt—as it often did.

In view of this, his recent statement in the House of Commons that victory "may perhaps come soon" can be taken as an expression of his sincere conviction that the end in Europe is apparently in sight. But Churchill's statement is dangerous. If people could hear such declarations and not in any way relax their efforts toward final victory all would be well. But that isn't the way of human nature.

Here in America, thousands of persons have left war jobs because they believe the war is "just about over." The prime minister's words will strengthen that belief. Yet, there is a most urgent need right now for increased production of heavy artillery, heavy trucks, bulldozers and cranes, all of which are essential to bring the conflict to a successful conclusion.

We should remember that no matter how near the war in Europe is to its end, it needs our full support on the home front until the last shot is fired. And we should remember, too, that the war in Europe is only half the battle. Japan is still to be conquered and there is every reason to believe that the last stages of the Pacific war will be the hardest.

Court St. Mary

Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold their regular monthly meeting, Thursday, August 17, 8 p. m. at Masonic hall, 17 Hillcrest drive. Mrs. Helen Rode, grand regent, will preside.

After the business session, a social will be enjoyed. The trustees of the court will be in charge of the refreshments.

Design Silver Badge For Glider Troops

The newly designed Glider badge for glider troops is silver and depicts a glider resting on a pair of joined wings, identical to those used on the Parachutist emblem, and is awarded only to soldiers qualified for glider activities, stated an announcement received today at headquarters, Ninth Service Command, Fort Douglas, Utah.

READING & WRITING

BY Edwin Seaver AND Robin McKoun

John P. Marquand, Pulitzer prize-winning novelist and well known magazine and detective story writer, has joined the editorial board of the Book-of-the-Month Club.

The addition of Mr. Marquand to the board brings the total up to the original number of five for the first time since the death of Heywood Brown in 1939. Mr. Marquand's appointment follows closely that of Clifton Fadiman in May, replacing the late William Allen White. In addition to Mr. Marquand and Mr. Fadiman, the board includes Dorothy Canfield, Christopher Morley and Henry Seidel Canby.

Mr. Marquand has had two of his novels—"H. M. Pulham, Esq." and, more recently, "So Little Time"—chosen by the Club. Now that he is a member of the Club's editorial board, however, no more of his books may be chosen. It has been a rule of the organization, since its inception in 1926, that no judge may have one of his own books selected for distribution.

In announcing the appointment of the new judge, Harry Scherman, president of the Book-of-the-Month Club, stated: "John Marquand's straight and unorthodox appraisal of people and life has become well known to the public through his novels. It extends to books. The present members of the Board are delighted that henceforth they will have his good sense and judgment supplementing their own views."

"Anna and the King of Siam" by Margaret Landon, tells the story of Anna Leonowens who taught the royal children of the King of Siam and acted as his personal secretary back in the 1860's. The King's limited knowledge of the English language sometimes caused curious mix-ups. Once he found an English newspaper story which referred to him as "a spare man." Enraged, he protested he was not a spare man, that the Kingdom couldn't possibly do without him. Anna vainly protested that the story merely meant he was a thin man. He wouldn't listen to her. He insisted on having an elaborate dinner for all the English in Bangkok. He would show them. At the dinner, Anna whispered a few words to the English consul, who then rose and made a toast, "To his Gracious Majesty the King of Siam, our host. It would be a sad day for our country if her King ever became a spare man." Some of the looked a little bewildered at such a toast, but the King's smile was that of a pleased child.

This Pie Is "Different"

By Frances Lee Barton

MANY claim that chocolate is a man's flavor. Those who have children are always ready to argue about this. And it appears to me that many women have a leaning toward that chocolate chocolate is universally enjoyed by all ages and both sexes.

So why not vary your apple pies, your berry pies and your raisin pies by serving a "different" pie occasionally—like the Velvet Chocolate Cream Pie below?

Velvet Chocolate Cream Pie
2 to 3 squares unsweetened chocolate; ¼ cup sugar; ¼ cup water; 6 tablespoons flour; ½ teaspoon salt; 2 cups milk; 1 egg, slightly beaten; 2 teaspoons butter; 1½ teaspoons vanilla; 1 baked 9-inch pie shell.

Combine chocolate, ¼ cup sugar, and water in saucepan. Cook 5 minutes, stirring constantly. Combine flour, remaining sugar, and salt in top of double boiler. Add milk gradually, stirring well; then add chocolate syrup. Place over boiling water and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Then continue cooking 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour small amount of mixture over egg, stirring vigorously; return to double boiler and blend. Remove from boiling water, add butter and vanilla. Cool. Turn into pie shell. Top with sweetened whipped cream.

to wipe Food Chiselling out of Food

You can't beat this daily double—the Shopper and the Honest Storekeeper—the team that is making ration points and prices help win the war!

Keep food fighting for freedom marketing, do these two simple things:

1. Pay your points! Ration points are a way of dividing up our scarcer goods so everyone gets his share.
2. Pay only legal prices! Price ceilings are necessary to keep the cost of food from going too high for the millions of Americans on allotments or other small fixed incomes.

Official "ceiling" prices and points for food are posted in all food stores and at your local War Relocation Authority. By keeping yourself posted on points and prices, your grocer, your pocketbook—and you—help.

The July ration point value charts for meats-fats and for processed foods will remain in use at least until August 13, 1944. The 16 point value per pound of butter established July 23, 1944 also continues in effect.

Ration Time RECIPES

Here's a cheese and macaroni loaf with rarebit sauce that's a toothsome mainstay on a meatless menu. Part of the cheese sauce, made with cottonseed oil margarine, is used to add flavor and moisture to the loaf, and the rest is served with the loaf when it is sliced:

CHEESE AND MACARONI LOAF WITH RAREBIT SAUCE

- 1 cup elbow macaroni
- 3 tablespoons margarine
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon celery salt
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
- Dash of pepper
- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded American cheese
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/4 cup chopped green pepper

Cook macaroni in rapidly boiling salted water until tender; drain. Melt margarine. Blend in flour and seasonings. Remove from heat. Add milk gradually, mixing well. Cook over low heat, stirring until thickened. Add cheese, stirring until melted. Add Worcestershire sauce. To well beaten eggs, add macaroni, green pepper, and half of cheese sauce; mix well. (Place rest of sauce over hot water.) Pour macaroni mixture into well greased loaf pan. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) about 45 minutes. Turn out on warm platter. Garnish with water cream and broiled tomato slices, seasoned with grated onion, salt, and pepper. Serve loaf, sliced, with remaining cheese sauce. Serves 6.

Other favorite low-point recipes are found in a 32-page cookbook "Ration-Time Recipes." Free copy may be obtained from National Cotton Council, Box 18, Memphis (4) Tennessee.

Here's Rationing News From Local Board

(Editor's note: this column is prepared for The Record's readers by the local OPA board and is printed by this newspaper for the convenience of both the public and the board.)

Volunteer workers will be urgently needed at the local board after August 15 to assist in issuing the new gas ration books. The work is easy and it is only necessary to volunteer for a few hours a week—no filing, some typing, and lots of book covers on which names and addresses are to be written in long hand. If you can type you will be given typing to do. The local board is open from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. for workers and you may work any hours you like. Also, on Tuesday evening the board is open until 8:30. The board closes at 12:30 on Saturday. Further information about the work may be obtained from Mrs. Myra Spangler, who is in charge of volunteer work, or Miss Blue, chief clerk of the board.

It will be impossible for the board to handle the huge volume of new books to be issued in September with its present staff. As a volunteer you will be doing your part for your country and your community. If you have friends or neighbors with whom you would like to work, it is suggested that you come together or as a group. Many applications are received which are illegible. This has caused unnecessary delays in handling. Please fill out your applications as fully as you can and print your name and address legibly. Your request will thus be more speedily handled.

Does your grocer and meat dealer have all his products tagged, showing prices, grade and point values? If not, please notify your local Board at South San Francisco 1221. Your price panel will check immediately and see that all articles are tagged with prices, grade and point value. This is for your protection against paying more than the ceiling prices and saves you embarrassment in asking prices. No penalty will be inflicted on your dealer if he cooperates with the requests of the price panel and gets his merchandise properly tagged.

Classified advertising in newspapers has so trained the public as to what to do with a ration book which is found, that War Price and Rationing Boards will no longer require that lost ration books be advertised, according to Monsignor Egisto Tozzi, OPA War Price and Rationing Board chairman for this area. Action by the local board today followed the receipt of a notice from the OPA in Washington saying that the advertising requirements for lost ration books must be waived hereafter by local boards. "The OPA is indebted to the media of the classified ad for having pioneered an understanding of the rigid requirements of OPA when ration books are lost" said Chairman Tozzi.

Now the public has become educated to drop ration books which they find into the nearest mail box or return to the owner, whose address is on the face of the book. Relaxation of the advertising regulation should not be taken to mean that there are no difficulties in replacing a lost ration book.

Unions Start Blood Donor Campaign

Forty-six trades unions affiliated with the San Mateo County Building Trades council, this week, opened a blood donor contest at the San Mateo County Blood Bank, 25 South El Camino Real, San Mateo.

The several thousand union members are expected to compete. Each union will be scored in the contest which will continue through this entire month. High score will be based on the number of donors in comparison with total membership of each union competing.

The county blood bank must keep pace with the increasing tempo of warfare in the South Pacific. Since the Navy hospitals of the Bay area are daily receiving many wounded from the South Pacific battle zones there is an ever increasing demand on the local blood bank for the life saving plasma and whole blood alike, officials of the project said.

San Mateo county residents as well as the members of organized labor are asked to make August an outstanding month in the two-year history of the blood bank.

PLANE TALK

BY
Rowland Burnston

The safety of the modern private or commercial planes has placed the parachute in the same category as a life preserver on a ship. Anyone who flies has the peace of mind of knowing if it becomes necessary to abandon the plane while in flight, that it is possible to step out and float safely to earth. It is not necessary to wear the chute while in flight. They are now designed so that the chute and harness are concealed in the chair upholstery, and there is no evidence of the parachute except the connections protruding from the sides of the chair and seat cushion. As the passenger arises, the pack emerges from the recessed chair back.

Parachutes are usually used at any height above 400 feet from the ground. At the present time most parachutes are made of nylon, weigh approximately 19 lbs., and are attached to a special harness which buckles about the body.

A pull on the rip cord handle (A) pulls the single pin out of fittings (B) freeing cable (C) from ground tray (D). The pack cover and pilot chute (E) thus released, creates a drag and pulls the parachute from the tray. The continued pull on the rip cord operates the ejector (F) which is folded under the second fold near the apex (G) throwing the canopy away from the body into the air stream.

Army Dietitians Praise Use Of Jam

The tell tale marks of jam stealing on a small boy may well move out of the comic strip world for now Army dietitians have declared jam one of the best sources of vitamins and carbohydrates on G. I. menus. Little Joe Jones must have known this even before the exacting military experts told the Jersey City Quartermaster depot to buy lots of jam for the soldiers.

So, in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1944, the Army sent overseas 708,000 dozen tins containing eight pounds, six ounces each and for installations in the United States, bought 1,672,000 dozen two pound jars of apricot, blackberry, blue berry, cherry, currant, elderberry, grape, peach, and pineapple jam. To haul these vitamins to the depots, 1,300 cars with a minimum weight of 60,000 pounds each, moved over the nation's rails.

HEALTH BRIEF

For the week ending July 29, the health bulletin issued by the San Mateo County Department of Public Health and Welfare listed only one communicable disease in Daly City, a case of scarlet fever.

The same bulletin gave the public advice about properly cooking pork. Unless pork is thoroughly cooked there is always danger of trichinosis. It was pointed out that fresh pork should be cooked until it becomes white and is no longer red in color in all portions of the piece, at the center as well as near the surface.

Pick Cornish Pasties for a Picnic Menu

A WELL-BALANCED but simple menu is the order of the picnic day—for picnics should be fun for mother as well as for other members of the family. Whether eaten out in the wide open spaces or in your own back yard, everyone knows the food is the most important part of a picnic.

For a pinch of variety to spice the menu, Cornish Pasties are different and satisfying. Flaky pastry surrounding meat, potatoes, carrots and onion with just the right dash of seasoning, make a meal-in-one. A large bowl of fresh tomatoes, fruit, cake, and a beverage complete the pick of the food to eat.

The pasties can be served either hot or cold. But so there will be no last-minute rush, prepare them early in the day. The recipe calls for the new blended shortening—easy to use direct from the refrigerator or cupboard shelf and with high shortening power for a crisp, flaky crust.

Cornish Meat Pasties
(Yield: 6 pasties)

Pastry:
3 cups sifted flour
1 teaspoon salt

1 cup blended shortening
8-10 tablespoons cold water

Filling

1 pound ground beef
1 tablespoon fat
1 cup cubed potatoes
1 cup diced carrots
1 medium onion
1½ teaspoons salt

For the pastry, sift flour and salt. Cut the blended shortening into the flour until it is like coarse cornmeal, leaving some pieces of blended shortening about the size of dried peas.

Add water gradually, using a knife or fork to blend the mixture into a stiff dough. Chill dough while preparing the filling.

Melt the fat in a skillet. Add the meat and brown well. Add the potatoes, carrots, finely sliced onion and salt. Let cook over low heat while rolling pasties.

Roll pastry into six 6-inch circles. Arrange meat and vegetables on one-half of each circle. Moisten edges with water, fold pastry over and seal with a fork.

Place on a baking sheet and bake at 450° F. for 15 minutes, reduce heat and finish baking at 350° F. for about 30 minutes.

This guy relaxes with his rake. So troops on trains can get a break.

But this dumb duck drives troops berserk. He thinks "One more won't hurt"—the jerk!

KID SALVAGE

Cookery QUERY CORNER

MEAT EN BROchette

Preparing the Meat
Lamb, pork, or veal shoulder or beef round steak one-half to three-fourths inch in thickness may be used. Cut in boneless one and one-half inch squares. Slice small onions one-half inch thick and cut potatoes into pieces the size of the meat.

Alternate pieces of meat, onion and potato on wooden or metal skewers. Brown the skewered meat and vegetables on all sides in a small amount of lard or drippings. Season, cover, and cook slowly for about 45 minutes.

A Delicious Treat

When done remove to hot platter. For a delicious luncheon, supper or dinner menu serve a mixed vegetable salad or sliced tomatoes, gingerbread, fresh fruit, and lemonade.

"At Home"

EVERY BRIDE wants one good "At Home" print dress in her compact trousseau this year. There's unlimited social acceptability for the brown and white model which CBS star Elizabeth ("Young Dr. Malone") Reller selected to wear with accessories of either color, now and later. Full sleeves and portrait neckline carry out the simple lines to which fine prints are adapted. (From The Clothes-Horse, New York.)
